VFSTR Marks World Water Day with a Painting Exhibition

The exhibition stood as a testament to the students' creativity and deep social awareness. The event was convened by Dr. K. Krishnadevi and Dr. Arpita Roy, assistant professors, Department of Chemistry, School of Applied Science & Humanities, whose guidance shaped the event into a meaningful academic and social dialogue. Their efforts ensured the exhibition resonated beyond the canvas, sparking conversation on pressing global concerns.

On the eve of World Water Day 2026, a painting exhibition was organized by the Central Pollution Control Board (CPCB) in collaboration with the Department of Chemistry and the University Extension Activity Council (UEAC). The theme, "Water and Gender," spotlighted the intrinsic link between water access, gender equality, and social responsibility. B.Tech students actively participated, presenting thought-provoking paintings that addressed critical issues, including women's pivotal role in water management, the everyday challenges faced in accessing clean water, and the urgent need for equitable distribution of water resources.

The competition concluded with well-deserved recognition: Ms. B. Deepthi (B.Tech) clinched the First Prize, Mr. Sai Dhanesh (ECE) secured the Second Prize, and Mr. Rachamsetty Sushma (M.Sc. Chemistry) received the Third Prize. The event successfully conveyed a powerful message of inclusivity, sustainability, and the collective responsibility of ensuring water security for all.
