Hack to Protect Cyber Awareness on Ethical Hacking techniques, cyber threats, and preventive measures, thereby preparing them for real-world challenges in information security.

The sessions were primarily led by the external resource person, Mr. G. Bharath Kumar, CEO of Lyfaux Technology, Bangalore, who provided industry-oriented training and hands-on demonstrations on ethical hacking tools and techniques. He emphasized the increasing demand for cybersecurity professionals and guided students on practical approaches to identifying and preventing cyber threats.

Throughout the course, students were introduced to networking fundamentals, virtual lab setup, system hacking techniques, password security, and the use of tools such as Kali Linux and VMware. Demonstrations on cyber-attack methods, including phishing, spoofing, and malware, provided practical

A value-added course on “Ethical Hacking and Cyber Safety Awareness” was organized by the Department of Information Technology under the School of Computing and Informatics at Vignan’s Foundation for Science, Technology & Research (VFSTR), Vadlamudi, to equip students with essential cybersecurity skills and practical knowledge in safeguarding digital systems.

The program was conducted for II B. Tech. Information Technology students, aiming to address the growing need for cybersecurity awareness in today’s digital era. The initiative focused on educating students about ethical hacking exposure. Sessions also covered wireless security, data recovery, and cyber laws in India, promoting responsible digital practices.

The program was held under the guidance of Dr. K. Sujatha, Head of the Department of Information Technology, who emphasized the importance of cybersecurity awareness in today's digital era and encouraged students to actively engage in such skill-oriented initiatives. The sessions were coordinated by Dr. M. Srikanth Yadav, associate professor, along with Mrs. A. Ushakiran, teaching associate.
