“Vignan’s Institute of Law Hosts Tree-Planting Event to Promote Environmental Responsibility and Sustainable Action”

Vignan’s Institute of Law hosted a tree-planting event as part of the conference, “Bridging the Gap: Legal and Technical Approaches to Climate Change.” This initiative aimed to underscore the essential role of educational institutions in tackling environmental challenges.

The event featured notable participants, including Dr. Kalpana Koneru, Dean of the School of Law and Management, and Dr. Chitrapu Kamaraju, Director of Vignan’s Institute of Law. Faculty members and students took an active part in the planting, highlighting the importance of collective action in addressing climate change.

Dr. Kalpana Koneru emphasized the need for collaboration between legal frameworks and technological advancements, stating, “Legal frameworks and technical advancements must work hand in hand to create sustainable solutions for our planet.

Today’s efforts symbolize our commitment to environmental stewardship.”

Dr. Chitrapu Kamaraju also underscored the importance of environmental responsibility. “Today, we take a significant step towards a sustainable future. By planting these trees, we are not only enhancing our campus but also setting an example for the community. Each tree represents our commitment to combating climate change and promoting biodiversity,” he noted. “Integrating legal and technical approaches is essential to create a greener planet for future generations.” His remarks highlighted the pivotal role of education in fostering a culture of environmental awareness and action.

The newly planted trees will beautify the campus and contribute to carbon sequestration and biodiversity, showcasing the institution’s dedication to sustainability and environmental education. Vignan’s Institute of Law remains committed to promoting awareness and action on climate issues, inspiring students and the community to adopt eco-friendly practices.
